With iSocial Weather, your site's visitors can interact with their community and share their weather with friends by posting their forecast, just as they share their social networking status. For example, if your visitors post a message on Twitter about an upcoming forecast, they can also send it to their friends on Facebook at the same time. Or if you're a local restaurant, you can share your updated menu on your site with your community, and they can add the dish to their shopping cart. With its simple and clean design, it's easy to use and customize. The component works with the most popular social media websites such as Facebook, Twitter, Google+, LinkedIn, MySpace, Flickr, Xing and many others. The component will also work with the most popular blogging platforms such as WordPress, Blogger, TypePad and Live Journal. You can also use the component with your favourite CMS like Joomla, Drupal and PHPBB. What's New In?

1)Makes the chart height and width automatically resize based on the dimensions of the actual chart image 2)Supports setting chart title, chart image URL, chart direction (left or right) and reload time. 3)The actual chart can be configured to be reloaded after 3 seconds, when the user mouses over the chart. 4)Displays the chart image vertically instead of horizontally I have not got much luck with the product description, and it's not until I noticed your account that I recognized the product name. I use it to display a batch of PowerTrend charts for the day. It works quite well - just for 1 hour though. If I go for a longer time the charts start to get out of order or get misaligned.Current endoscopic hemostatic techniques for the emergency department. Endoscopic hemostatic techniques are used as an alternative to surgical interventions in cases of gastrointestinal hemorrhage. To review the currently available endoscopic hemostatic techniques and their indications. A literature review and expert consensus. There is a direct relationship between the type of endoscopic hemostatic technique applied and the initial rate of success. Pharmacological and mechanical techniques are currently in use for management of gastrointestinal bleeding. Pharmacological techniques are used when intra- and extra-luminal bleeding is suspected, whereas mechanical techniques are used in patients with an intraluminal source of bleeding. The technique of choice in patients with a high bleeding volume, massive bleeding, and large ulcers is vasoconstrictors. Combined techniques are the treatments of choice in patients with a low bleeding volume, small ulcers, and base of a diverticulum. Electrocautery, including argon plasma coagulation, and intralesional injection of adrenaline or epinephrine are used in selected cases of arteriovenous malformations and bleeding diverticula. The EndoClip and the SprayGuard needle are effective in the early stages of bleeding, but these devices are not effective in stopping the bleeding once the blood vessel wall has been compromised. Biodegradable glues are used for the treatment of non-variceal hemorrhage. Hemoclips and pharmacological techniques are effective in the early stages of bleeding. Vasoconstrictors are the treatment of choice for the endoscopic management of gastrointestinal bleeding.Cameron Oniealoha Cameron Antone Oniealoha (born May 4, 1987) is a former American football wide receiver.
